THEATRICAL.

"HUMAN HEARTS."

To be transported from the strife of town to the atmosphere of the hill country, with its simple honest people pursuing their lives of affection and trust, is in itself a refreshment. To hear the singing of the birds and those other sounds with the farm, to hear and see all things that flood the memory with pleasant experience and excite the imagination to a realizing sense of the poetry of common things, is not only a relief from the cares of the day, but a renewal of the better side of nature.

In the realistic melodrama, "Human Hearts," the scenes, which are chiefly among the hills of Arkansas, is found a power to charm that is marvellous. Everything has its purpose and furthers the main intention of an all absorbing story of love, hate, injustice and retribution. The play engages the sympathies for the sufferings visited on a family of plain, honest people, through the unfortunate marriage of the hero with an adventuress whom he thought to reform, but failed; the temptation of the old life proving too strong for her.

The dark side of the story is well balanced with humor, adroitly introduced and made a necessary element in the action. To detail the plot would be to rob the pleasure of its surprises, for like "Store Acres and the Old Homestead," "Human Hearts" while on a different theme, throbs with interest true to nature and is an ever welcome visitor to the discriminating and thoughtful spectators. That its production will be welcomed by an overflowing house is almost a foregone conclusion.

At the Paris Grand next Monday, October 16. Seats now on sale at Mitchell & Blakemore's. Prices 25 cents to 75 cents.

The three reels of motion pictures which are being shown each night this week at the Grand are a revelation to the theatre goers of Paris and large crowds are nightly showing their appreciation. Manager Porter has arranged with the General Film Company of Cincinnati, to furnish him with three reels of the latest and most up-to-date pictures. Coming soon are the flood tragedy at Austin, Pa., in which the entire town was swept away and hundreds of lives lost. Also the Two Orphans in three reels, one of the greatest pictures ever made.

The performances of Prof. Mawhorter on the piano are exceedingly pleasing to the large audiences nightly. The Professor plays the pictures, and his quickness in adapting the music to suit the picture is really wonderful. Three extra good reels for tonight.

Flood Hero Once Paris Citizen.

A press report from the flood swept district of Northwestern New Mexico and Southwestern Colorado, tells of the drowning of John Rice, who met his death in aiding in the rescue of the pupils of the Methodist Mission School at Farmington, New Mexico.

The press report gave no other particulars as the telephone and telegraphic service is badly crippled as a result of the flood and only meager reports are obtainable.

Mr. Rice was a former resident of this city and two years ago moved with his family to Colorado for the benefit of his health. For some time he was in the government service and was employed in the capacity of Rural Route carrier. When he moved to Colorado, he located near Blanca, but about two weeks ago, letters from that point to relatives here stated that he would move with his family to Farmington, N. M., where his daughter, Miss Minerva Rice, formerly a teacher in the Bourbon schools, had a position in the Methodist Mission School. Prior to the time of entering the government service Mr. Rice was a tenant on the farm of Mr. Newton Mitchell.

Mrs. Wm. Argo, who resides on Eighth street in this city, is a sister of Mr. Rice, and since the report of his untimely death reached here his relatives have made every effort to get into communication with the family. While they have no direct information as to the death of Mr. Rice, they are confident the unfortunate man mentioned in the press dispatch sent out from Denver is he.

Mr. Rice was a member of the Christian church and prominent in fraternal circles being an active member of the local lodge of Knights while he made Paris his home, and this order is making every effort to gain any information concerning his death.
